Scope Plane

What the site requirements are:

- Eye-catching front/home page
- Contain an "about us" page to give users background information and an insight into who the reviewers are
- Short and punchy reviews, easy to understand and aimed towards the average/casual gamer
- The ability for users to submit the names of games they would like to be reviewed/their reviews
- Links to the group on other social media formats.
- Content from other reviewers to provide more insight into the games reviewed (for the users)

What the site actually needs:

- To be a mobile-first responsive website
- To contain a easy to use, efficient UI to create a positive user experience
- Easy to find reviews page, pleasantly set up with pictures to help the user tell reviews apart
- A "contact us" form to allow for the users to place requests on the content they want reviewed and submit their reviews
- Links to social media platforms to allow for further connectivity
- Subscription system, to inform users of when new review is published to website (rather than finding out through social media)

What could the site benefit from having:

- The reviewers own gameplay featured with review
- Featured reviews sent in by current users

User stories:

Below are certain situations/stories of how the user might interact with the system:

SCENARIO	REQUIREMENTS
A user wants to find a review for a game, but doesn't want all the complex technical gaming terminology that often comes with it	The ability to click on our reviews page and find accessible and easy to understand reviews
The game that the user wants to read about, hasn't been reviewed yet	The ability for the user to submit a form to request the game they would like to be reviewed
A user wants to connect with us or other casual gamers to discuss games	Provide links to other forms of social media, also set up Discord chat group
User does not have a laptop/desktop and wants to use the website	The site will be fully mobile first, so all content will be viewable on mobile phone
The user wants to message us directly about other content on the website/send in a review	The "contact us" form can also be used for the purpose of sending a direct message to the site email account
User wants a more in depth review/look at the game in action	Embed other reviewers gameplay/review video on the site
User wants to know when the site will have new reviews	The site will include a subscription form to allow users to subscribe to a mailing list
